STRYND

Strynd: what it does and why it helps

Updated November 12, 2026 · www.strynd.com

Strynd keeps track of the people you work with and everything you owe them. You type or say what happened ("Marcus got hired at Amazon", "remind me to call Ana Friday at 3") and Strynd files it in the right place: on the person, on your task list, on your calendar. You open it and see what needs you today.

It's built for two kinds of users:

- Individuals who keep track of a lot of people: coaches, mentors, recruiters, program leads, small-business owners and community organizers.
- Agencies and teams, such as nonprofits, case-management programs and outreach teams. Members work their own clients, managers see the whole picture, and the organization gets reports it can hand to funders.

1. Fast capture: get it out of your head in seconds

What you do	What Strynd does
Type `Remind me to call Marcus Friday at 3`	Creates a task due Friday at 3 PM, linked to Marcus
Type `Marcus got hired at Amazon`	Adds a note to Marcus's profile
Type `Call Marcus every Monday`	Creates a repeating weekly task
Type `Add Marcus, James and Wes to Group 7`	Creates the group and any new people
Paste a paragraph of notes	Splits it into separate notes and tasks

- Plain English, no forms. One command bar handles people, notes, tasks, lists and search. Press `/` anywhere, or tap + on a phone.
- Preview before saving. You see what it's about to do before you press Enter.
- Understands dates like "Friday at 3", "in 2 weeks" and "tomorrow morning", in your own time zone.
- Voice everywhere. Tap the mic on any field and talk.
- Undo on everything. Complete, delete, snooze or move anything and you get a few seconds to take it back.

Benefit: writing things down takes seconds instead of minutes, so things stop slipping through the cracks.

2. People and clients

- A profile for each person: name, birthday, phone, email, status, next action and an automatic summary.
- A timeline of every note, task, check-in and list they're on.
- Optional demographics for funder reporting: gender, ethnicity and income level.
- A stale badge when someone hasn't been touched in 14 days, and a Needs attention list for people who are flagged, quiet or have overdue tasks.
- Import a client list from Excel or CSV, with automatic column matching, duplicate checks and a preview. Export your roster any time.

Benefit: you walk into every conversation knowing the history, and nobody goes forgotten.

3. Tasks and reminders

- Today, Upcoming, No date and Completed views.
- Due dates with optional times. Tasks can repeat daily, weekly or monthly.
- On a phone, swipe to complete or snooze.
- Suggested tasks: Strynd reads your notes for to-dos ("I'll call the landlord tomorrow") and offers to add them with one tap.
- A notification bell for overdue and due-today items, upcoming birthdays and people who need attention.
- Coming soon: push notifications and text-message reminders (both built, being switched on).

Benefit: follow-ups happen on time without you holding them in your head.

4. Notes and lists

- Quick notes, standalone or attached to a person, with search and inline editing.
- Lists for anything (groceries, projects, packing) and groups for rosters of people.
- Check items off, drag to reorder, share by text or email, and export to PDF or Excel.
- Turn a list of names into people in one tap. "Marcus Johnson 05/12 5551234567" becomes a profile with his birthday and phone number.

5. Calendar, with Google, Apple and Outlook sync

- Month, Week and Agenda views, with Today and jump-to-month buttons.
- Shows your tasks (overdue in red) and birthdays. You can check off tasks right on the calendar.
- Show your other calendars in Strynd: link Google, Apple or Outlook calendars, which also covers Calendly and Cal.com bookings. Their events appear read-only, each in its own color.
- See Strynd in your other calendars: subscribe from Google, Apple or Outlook to a private link, and your open tasks show up on your phone's calendar.

Benefit: one view of your whole day, without retyping anything.

6. Meetings and check-ins

- Log a meeting (called a "check-in" for organizations) with a person, a time and a reason, in seconds.
- Browse them by day, week or month, and export them.
- Every check-in lands on the person's timeline.

6b. Services: know what works

- List what you offer in Settings → Services (haircut, consultation, catering order, housing support), with an optional price.
- Log one in a tap when you record a visit or meeting, or just type "Ana – haircut" or "Marcus bought catering $200".
- Each profile shows the services that person has had, how often and when.
- Insights show each service's use, people, revenue, trend vs the last period, and its busiest day and time. Filter People by service.

Benefit: real numbers on what sells, what's growing and when you're busiest, without extra data entry.

7. For agencies and teams (Organization plan)

- Roles:
  - Members work with their own clients.
  - Managers see every client and every member's work, read-only.
  - Admins also invite staff, change roles and deactivate people.
- Personal stays personal. Each staff member's own tasks, notes and lists are never visible to the organization.
- Team dashboard: each staff member's clients, open tasks and items needing follow-up.
- Shared client records with staff comments. Client records stay with the organization when someone leaves.
- Activity log: who did what, and when.
- Front-desk kiosk: turn a tablet into a check-in station. Clients type their name and pick a reason for the visit, and staff see it right away. A PIN locks it.
- Referral link: a public form partners use to refer clients, with appointment booking, duplicate detection ("might already be a client") and an accept/decline queue.
- Impact reports (called "Insights" for individuals):
  - People served (each counted once) and how many were new.
  - Busiest days and hours, reasons for visits and follow-through.
  - Who you serve by gender, ethnicity and income level.
  - Exports to PDF and Excel for funders and boards.

Benefit: managers get visibility, staff keep their own workspace, and grant reports take minutes instead of a weekend.

8. Works where you work

- Install it on any phone or computer from the browser ("Add to Home Screen"). It gets its own icon and runs full-screen.
- On Android, share text from other apps straight into Strynd.
- Keyboard shortcuts: `/` for commands, `Ctrl/⌘+K` to search everything.
- Light and dark mode.

9. Security, privacy and your data

- Encrypted in transit and at rest. Database-level rules keep each account's data separate.
- Two-step sign-in, automatic sign-out after inactivity, and "sign out everywhere".
- Your data is yours: export everything any time (CSV, Excel, or a full JSON backup). Delete your account and its data in one step.
- We never sell your data or use it for ads.
- Clear Terms and Privacy policy, agreed to at sign-up and recorded.

10. Help when you need it

- Contact support from inside the app (Settings → About & help). Messages go straight to the founder, with your plan and device attached so you don't have to explain.
